Among Miss Neilson's earthly possessions recently sold at auction in New York were various elegant articles of jewelry presented to her by different persons, including a richly studded bracelet, the gift of Lady Dudley. SUMMER RESORTS. The question of summer dwelling places for persons whose purses are long enough to permit them to choose is one of the serious conundrums of the daywhether it shall be Saratoga or Newport, or Nahant, or Long Branch, or Cape May, or the White Mountains, or Chatauqua Lake, or the Mountains of East Tennessee, or Georgia, or some other of the thousand and one summer resorts that are advertising and have had their attractions advertised-are being now debated. It is a serious thing to be rich enough and genteel enough to feel forced as it were by the demand of social benevolence to give up one's cool drawing-rooms, and airy bed-chambers and shaded dining-rooms and closets and bureau drawers and bath-room and laundry for two or three mortal months at a "watering place" where there are flies and fleas and mosquitoes and b-s and snakes and caterpillars; where your wash pitcher is always empty and your towels missing and your spring chicken patriarchal and your beef steak leathery and your tea dishwater and your bread sour and your biscuits doughy and your landlady short and your bills long and terrible: where you have to sit in parlors where everybody talks at once, and eat at tables where folks feed themselves with their knives, or flee to your sleepingroom, where the chambermaid neglects to come and tidy, and where there are no blinds to shut out the sun, nor space when your baggage is in it to turn round without fleeing to the corridors, and where, in fact, you are miserable from morning till night, where from night till morning it is almost impossible to close your eyes in slumber. But what can you do? If your social position is not as fixed as fate, these summer migrations and consequent sufferings are quite indispensable. If, moreover, you are not rich, they are absolutely imperative. Society has its laws as fixed as those of the Medes and Persians. Noblesse oblige that the lights in the social firmament shall blaze at watering places and seaside hops, that they shall dress four times per diem for the emulation and admiration of the gaping multitude-chiefly blackguards and adventurers-who make up the unrecognizable rabble of the great vanity fairs of fash-ionable summer frivolity, and he or she who fails to recognize the behests of this great unwritten law might as well write Ichabod over the vestibule of his stone-front residence, and make up his mind to be relegated to the limbo of unfashionable social darkness forevermore.

the waiters or baggage smashers. P. P. S-You had better do it.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

The English Papers of This Morning. The Commercial publishes a summary of the preferences of delegates to Chicag, and says: This table shows that nothing but the blackest treachery and corruption can enable the Grant men to control the tour important committees. Give the Grant managers all the doubtful delegations, and they would still require two more for a majority. What two can they get? They assume that they can fix up the remaining Territories, or the Windom (Minnesota) delegation, or even New Jersey or Massa-chusetts. They have ten delegations to get before they can pack the permanent committees, and the Bosses will find this something of a task. The seven delegations we have marked doubtful are, in our opinion, Anti-Grant, except that of the District of Columbia, reported to be evenly divided between Blaine and Grant. and Grant. Before the Committee on Credentials, thus formed-unless all precedents are revolutionized-will come the contests in Illinois and other States. The contests in Illinois and other States. The strength of the anti-Grant men, if wisely exerted, seems to be invincible.—Do Logan and Conkling and Cameron belong to the Republican party, or does the Republican party belong to them?—Grant is not nominated, notwithstanding the persistent reiteration of the Thirdterm organs that he has a majority of the delegates to Chicago. The Thompsonian plan of claiming exerciting and sonian plan of claiming everything, and claiming it exultingly, has been adopted by the Grantites. - The Third-termers are in pursuit of something they do not care to avow. What is it? Plainly they have been lying to the country. They said there was an emergency that demanded Grant; and they have dropped that. We hear of it no more. They said Grant was not a candidate; but he is as voracious a candidate as ever appeared. All the asser-tions from the beginning that he was not an eager and scrambling candidate, ready to fight on all fours to go into the White House as master again, have been faise; and all the affectations of modesty and reluctance have been sheer imposture. The Bosses want the use of a great name, under hich they may divide the spoil of the country perpetually. That is the true and only explanation of the present situation.

The Enquirer says: Judge Baxter inti-mates that the Louisville and Nashville monopoly has become formidable enough. Right, Judge.-Charley Farwell will supply the audiences at the Anti-Grant meetngs in Chicago. He has them hired .- The sherman men are praying for a thunderstorm at Chicago. They want to be hit by lightning.—Blaine is not to go to Chicago, all previous reports to the contrary not-withstanding. He will manage William withstanding. He will manage William E. Chandler by wire, and Chandler will manage the Blains interest at the Convennion.—Congress is expected to adjourn about the 15th of June. The Democratic members will not trust the Republicans with the Congressional machine during the Cincinnati Convention. They will profit by he experience of the Republican mem bers of the Ohio Legislature who ran off to Washington in 1877 to see Hayes inaugurated, and left Brunner and Norton to adopt a resolution denouncing the "counting-in" process.—If any one else than Grant should be nominated, it would be unnatural if the friends of Grant, the commanding candidate, the only moveless, voiceless stoical candidate, should not re-Sherman has no strength in the

Make way for the red bandanal—Regardless of how it claim her for a mother? Passenge the candidate on the Democratic side who appears to be gaining the most rapidly just now is an Ohio man. Make way for the red bandanal—Regardless of how it claim her for a mother? may burt, the unit rule is out of place in a Republican Convention. It ought to be smashed. A few years ago—ten, per-haps—a shrewd observer and heavy capialist and large real estate owner of this city said the time would come when a 5 per cent. investment in Cincinnati would be at par. He might not live to see it, he said, but it would come. And it has come much sooner than he anticipated. He has lived to see it, and he is now well satisfied with the improvements he then made which at the time were generally considered unprofitable. The man who can now secure a net return of 5 to 6 per cent. on investments considers himself fortunate, and bank stocks that pay 10@12 per cent. annually are well up to 200 with few sellers.—We observe that many of those who are speculating about the Chicag Convention speak of Ohio as having ad pted the unit rule. Ohio did nothing of the kind. The Convention instructed the four delegates at large and requested the district delegates to vote for Sherman There is no unit rule. The district delegates are at liberty to vote as they please, and that is precisely what they will be likely to do. Nearly all of them, however, will please to vote for Sherman, because he is unquestionably the first c oice of an overwhelming majority of the Republicans of Ohio.

AN INTERESTING ESSAY

ON SLEEPLESSNESS AND NERVOUS-NESS.

THEIR CAUSE AND CURE.

HEADACHE AND NEURALGIA TOUCHED UPON

BY DR. C. W. BENSON.

Nervousness is the result of nervous prosi and nervous irritability, and preys more slarm-ingly upon the general health than any other class of chronic diseases. Where will you find the consumptive, the dy-pept c. the gouty or rheumatic and hepatic patient whose first symp-toms were not of a nervous character, and which continued more and more to a complication those diseases, as well as many others, all the way through to the fatal end? Had the first nervous troubles and sleepless nights been attended to, the results might, in many cases,

What the fence, the air, and the fountain are to the beautiful garden, the nervous system is to the animal economy, and when it is broken down or out of repair, or in itself diseased, it is an invitation for all manner of diseases to enter, and by its electric streams conveyed to and through every avenue of the body.

If you are weak, irritable, sleepless, despondent, without energy, and feel badly, and can't decribe it, you may know that you are nervous and that these Pills will be invaluable to you in curing nervous weakness, prostration and des-pondency, thereby warding off the learful results that must follow nervousness if left to itself. Remember that this is not a nostrum or patent medcine, but is strictly a professional preparation. Sleeplessness, from whatsoever exciting cause, is always to be looked upon with fear and apprehension. No one can long retain health and cheerfulness, and good memory, whose sleep is not sound and refreshing. It is during sleep that the nervous system is repaired of the strain made upon it during the waking hours; therefore, sleep is absolutely essential to health, amiability of disposition, and to insure energy for the duties of life. Loss of sleep soon engenders lespondency and loss of mental force.

Headaches unerringly indicate a disturbed condition of the nerve fluid, and often lead to serious consequences, and should never be neglected. Headache is a more serious disease than is generally supposed, and is often the beginning of a fatal end, preceded by a long and fearful list of nervous symptoms. In a long and large experience in the treatm of Neuralgia, I have found nothing to act sochamomile Pills. Before I discovered this preparation, like most physicians, I treated it with little satisfaction to myself or patient; now I seldom fail to cure even the most obstinate cases.

DR. C. W. BENSON'S CELERY AND CHAMO-MILE PILLS are prepared expressly to cure Sick Headaches, Nervous Headache, Dyspeptie Headache, Neuralgia, and Nervousness, and will cure any case. Price 50c, postage free. Sold by all druggists. Depot No. 106 N. Eutaw street, Bal timore, Md.
